ASSISTANCE PROGRAM
APR. 2017

Caregivers spend so much time seeing to the needs of others that they have a tendency to neglect their own physical, spiritual, and emotional health. This can lead to feelings of sadness and anxiety, difficulty in relationships, and medical problems. Resilience, the ability to handle stressful situations and move beyond them, is vital for a caregiver's overall well-being. Your Employee Assistance Program can help with tools and resources to increase your staying power.
